How Parents can access Google Classroom with any email address

- Parents can use whatever email service they currently have, they'll use that address to sign up for a Google Account. If the guardian does not have a Google Account, they can use their current email address and create a Google Account without creating a Gmail account. When a parent creates the account, it asks for their current email address. Only if they click the link I would like a new Gmail address would they get another email address in the form of a Gmail account.
